

Dennis E. Gilbert, CSP Keynote Speaker

Many organizations report problems managing and effectively retaining a diverse multigenerational team. They also often report that the problem is created by generational differences. It's important to consider generational diversity is a symptom of the problem, not the cause. The root cause is likely related to communication, leadership, and organizational culture.

Navigating A Multigenerational Workforce

Position your audience or entire organization to:

- ◆ Bridge generational communication gaps
- ◆ Become role models for multigenerational team success
- ◆ Learn building blocks for an atmosphere of credibility, trust, and respect
- ◆ Strategically build positive actions that will save time, effort, and resources
- ◆ Ignite workplace efforts by creating a desirable, diverse, and strategic approach for generational neutrality

Repeat business: "Dennis delivered an uplifting and empowering message at the annual meeting of one of my client associations. Next Spring, he will be the keynote speaker at another client's conference. I have and will continue to recommend Dennis' talents, skills and insightful messages to other organizations."

- Gil Longwell, Meeting with Success!

Reach any audience: "The presentation Dennis provided to a 55+ (age) audience was well received and I was amazed by the amount of questions for Dennis. It clearly demonstrated his versatility to present to various groups with different backgrounds."

- Gerry Chickeletti, Mature Workers Program

Participants will connect with a deeper understanding of how we are often taught to "treat others the way we would like to be treated" but that is not the magical formula for generational success. The magical formula is to "treat others the way they want to be treated."

You've made a commitment to excellence; now solidify your actions by uniting the team.
